Invitation

Dear Colleagues,

On behalf of the organising committee we take great pleasure in extending an invitation to you to attend the “Liver Transplant Symposium” on February 28, 2014 at Dumra Auditorium, Dayanand Medical College and Hospital, Ludhiana, Punjab, India. This conference is being organised in collaboration with faculty from Mayo Clinic, Rochester, USA.

To keep pace with advances in solid organ transplantation and to fulfill the expectations of post graduate students, teachers and practicing consultants of various medical and surgical specialties, the scientific programme has been blended with latest interesting topics on liver, kidney, pancreas and heart transplantation. We hope it to be a good academic feast of the year, with active participation of eminent national and international faculty. The format of the conference will provide immense opportunities for interaction and sharing of experiences among the national and international participants. We also hope this will provide a unique learning experience for all of us and enable us to move the medical, surgical, anaesthetic and critical care practice in our country forward.

Registration for the conference is complimentary and the conference will also be accredited by the Punjab Medical Council for CME credit hours.. We look forward to welcome you to this Manchester of India and extend the typical Punjabi hospitality.

Sincerely yours,

Prof. Daljit Singh
